PREFACE

THIS work is specially designed to meet the popular demand for a convenient, complete, and reliable dictionary.

It contains all the words of the English language that are not peculiarly appropriate to a dictionary of technical terms.

It gives the spelling and pronunciation of plurals, and indicates the use of capital and small letters in writing every word in the vocabulary.

The past tense and the participles of verbs are given wherever not regularly formed, as by the addition of -d, -ed, and -ing.

The words in the vocabulary are arranged in strictly alphabetical order, making quick reference easy, and the size of the type is sufficiently large to render close and tiresome scrutiny unnecessary.

The pronunciation of each word is plainly indicated by phonetic spelling.

The definitions, while concise, are sufficiently comprehensive to embrace all the recent distinctions and meanings, and are accurate and reliable in every respect.

Believing that the demand for a convenient, complete, and reliable up-to-date American dictionary has been met by the construction of the present handy volume, it is confidently hoped by the publishers that the work will meet with a popular reception at the hands of the public.

Abbreviations of the Parts of Speech

AND THEIR GRAMMATICAL SIGNIFICATIONS

THE words that constitute our language are classified under eight different heads, called "parts of speech"; and, independently of the articles a, an, and the, consist of the NOUN, the ADJECTIVE, the PRONOUN, the VERB, the ADVERB, the PREPOSITION, the CONJUNCTION, and the INTERJECTION; and each word in the Dictionary is referred to one or other of these categories according to the functions, thus :—

n.	representing	noun or substantive.	adv.	representing	adverb.
adj.	"	adjective.	prep.	"	preposition.
pron.	"	pronoun.	conj.	"	conjunction.
v.	"	verb.	interj.	"	interjection.

As the four first parts of speech vary in inflection or otherwise, these changes are indicated thus :—

v. t.	representing	verb-transitive.
v. i.	"	verb-neuter or intransitive.
p. adj.	"	participial-adjective.
p. p.	"	past participle.
p. pr.	"	present participle.
p. t.	"	past tense.

To one or other of the above Parts of Speech each of the many thousand words of which our language is composed belongs, and the same word may belong to this or that division according to its function in a sentence. Thus, a word is a NOUN or SUBSTANTIVE when it names a thing, whether that be a substance or an abstraction, being called a noun as naming, and a substantive as capable of qualification. An ADJECTIVE (from the Latin adjectum) is a word "added to" a substantive to qualify it in some way, and in general at once amplify its meaning and limit its application. A PRONOUN (from the Latin pro nomine) is a word used "in place of a noun" to avoid its repetition, as well as to indicate certain rhetorical relations or logical connections. The VERB (from the Latin verbum) is "the word" of a sentence, and that which makes the assertion, as well as asks a question or expresses a command, and is here called active when it is transitive, and neuter (i.e., neither active nor passive) when it is not. An ADVERB (from the Latin ad verbum) is a word properly appended "to a verb" to express some modifying circumstance of place, time, manner or cause regarding it, but is also used to qualify attributive words like adjectives as well as verbs. The PREPOSITION (from the Latin præpositum) is a word "placed before" a noun or pronoun to show its relation to some other word in the sentence, and was originally expressive, for most part, of place-relation. The CONJUNCTION (from the Latin conjunctio) is a word used to "join together" sentences or clauses of sentences, and to indicate the relation in which these stand to each other. The INTERJECTION (from the Latin interjectum) is an abrupt exclamation "thrown between" the words of a sentence to express some related emotion on the part of the speaker, On referring to the Dictionary, the student will find many words which are of different parts of speech, and verbs which are both active and neuter, according to the senses in which they are used; but these are all clearly distinguished, and the definitions given accordingly.

ON THE

Origin, Composition, and Derivation

OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, which is now spoken over a large section of the globe, and by upwards of two hundred millions of its inhabitants, was originally formed from one imported into England by various small tribes from the north of Germany, who settled in it in the fifth and sixth centuries of the Christian era, the principal of which were the Jutes, the Saxons, and the Angles. These, on invading the country, gradually drove the greater number of the aboriginal inhabitants, who were of the Celtic race, westward, and into the mountainous parts of Wales, where their descendants are now located, and where their language is still spoken. Soon after these settlers arrived, the southern part of Britain was, after the chief tribe, called Angleland—i.e., land of the Angles—or England; and the language which they spoke, formed from the amalgamation of their several dialects, was called Anglo-Saxon. This is a branch of the Teutonic group, and claims kinship therefore with the Indo-European family of languages, of which the Teutonic is a member.

At the present time we find four groups of languages spoken in Europe, viz., the Celtic, the Latin, the Sclavonic, and the Teutonic. The Celtic languages are Welsh, spoken in Wales, Gaelic in the Highlands of Scotland, Erse in Ireland, Manx in the Isle of Man, and Breton in Brittany. The Latin language is, with various modifications, spoken by the Italians, the Spaniards, the French, and the Portuguese. The Sclavonic is spoken by the inhabitants of Russia, Poland, Croatia, and some parts of the Austrian Empire. The other inhabitants of Europe speak the Gothic languages, which are now generally called Teutonic. To the Teutonic belong the German, the Dutch, the Flemish, the Danish, Swedish, and Norwegian, and with these accordingly the English stands in close affinity.

The majority of words in the English language, as now spoken, and all the properly English ones, are from the Anglo-Saxon, and include the more common, homely, and familiar words; as, come, go, can, will, good, see, hear, above, home, bad. The others are, directly or indirectly, mostly from the Latin or the language of the ancient Romans, while the rest are from the Celtic, French, German, and Scandinavian languages, along with the Greek, which supplies the language with nearly all its scientific terms. Latin words were introduced partly by the Romans themselves, but mainly by the clergy of the Romish Church after Christianity was established, and by learned men after the revival of the study of the ancient languages in the 15th and 16th centuries. French words were added by the Normans after the Conquest, and relate to feudalism, law, the church, the chase, and cuisine. The introduction of Greek words connects itself with the rise and extension of scientific discovery. About the beginning of the 17th century, in the reign of James I., our language had already begun to assume the form in which we now find it, and is from that date entitled to be called the English language.

From the time when the Bible was translated into English, and, by being printed, spread among the people; when the Book of Common Prayer was compiled, and, along with the Bible, read to the people in churches; and when great writers, such as Spenser, Shakespeare, Ben Jonson, Bacon, and Milton, began to publish their immortal works in the every-day speech of the country, the language may be said to have become fixed; for, although numerous Greek and Latin words have been introduced since then to supply new terms required by the rapid extension of the arts and sciences, the language itself has, in its genius and form, undergone no material change. It is, in all essential particulars, the same as when it first took shape in the days of Queen Elizabeth, and her successor, James.

There are four periods in the history of the English language: (1.) The Anglo-Saxon, or old English, from 450 to 1100, when the vocabulary was Saxon and the words were largely inflected; (2.) The Early English, from 1100 to 1250, when French words began to appear and inflections to disappear or become confused; (3.) The Middle English, from 1250 to 1485, when inflections in many cases disappear altogether, and French, which had been introduced, began to yield to it; (4.) The Modern English, from 1485 to the present time.

Principles of Grammar

Grammar, or the art of speaking, reading, and writing correctly, comprises four main divisions:

1. Orthography, which treats of letters, syllables, separate words, and spelling.

2. Etymology, which treats of the different parts of speech, with their classes and modifications.

3. Syntax, which treats of the relation, agreement, government, and arrangement, of words in sentences.

4. Prosody, which treats of punctuation, utterance, figures, and verification.

1. ORTHOGRAPHY OR SPELLING

Orthography is the art of correct spelling, and is of essential importance in the study of the English language. It cannot be acquired entirely by means of rules, for the requisite number would be an impossible burden for the memory; nor is learning the spelling of words by rote a more practicable method. But there are a few general rules, easily remembered, and given below, attention to which will undoubtedly prevent any person's writing being much disfigured by bad spelling.

The following words ought to be begun with capital letters:—The first word of every sentence; the first word of every line of poetry; names of the Supreme Being; proper nouns; adjectives derived from proper nouns; the names of the days of the week, of holidays, and of the months; the pronoun I; and any leading name in the sentence which the author desires to make emphatic.

When a word ending in silent e receives an augment (an increase) beginning with a vowel, the e is omitted; as, give, giving; sense, sensible; fame, famous; cure, curable. The e is changed into i before fy and ty; as pure, purity, purify; active, activity. When the silent e is preceded by v, c, or g soft, it is usually retained before able and ous; as move, moveable, peace, peaceable; courage, courageous. The e is also retained before ful, less, ly, ment, ness, some, ty; as peaceful, nameless, wisely, excitement, whiteness, wholesome, surety.

It is an established rule in the English language, that words which end with the vowel e, and lengthen the sound of a preceding vowel (as in file, write, endure,) should drop the e on receiving a termination and becoming a derivative, if that termination begin with a vowel (as er, ed, ing, ance). Thus file—filer, not fileer, filing; endure, enduring, endurance, not endureance. But in cases where the e affects the sound of a preceding consonant it forms an exception: as in a word with a soft g, or where, in juxtaposition with another e, it forms one long vowel; thus, singe, sing*eing;* see, seeing.

Monosyllabic words ending in a single consonant, not preceded by a long vowel, and words of more than one syllable ending in a single accented consonant, and of course not preceded by a long vowel, double the final consonant in all the derivatives which are formed by a termination beginning with a vowel; as fit, fitted, fitteth, fitting; bar, barred, barreth; abet, abetted; compel, compelled. Without this doubling of the final consonant, the vowel in the accented syllable of the primitive word (that is the e in abet) would be pronounced wrong in the derivative (abetted, etc.), namely, with its long sound—fited, bared, abeted. Hence the reason why verbs having the long sound of a vowel do not double the last consonant; as feared, defiled, bloated.

Words ending in a single consonant, but not having the accent on the last syllable, do not double the final consonant in derivatives; as limit, limited; civil, civility; enter, entered.

A word ending in ll usually drops one l on becoming part of a compound word; as all, always; fill, fulfil; full, fruitful; till, until. But there are some exceptions to this rule; as recall, refill, uphill; which retain the orthography of their monosyllabic roots.

Words ending in y, preceded by a consonant, change the y into i on receiving an augment; as holy, holier; happy, happiness; pity, pitied. Exceptions—before ing, ish, and s, the y is retained; as flying, babyish, for pity's sake; also in dryness, slyly, shyness.

When the y is preceded by a vowel, it is retained; as boy, boyish; day, days; joy, joyful. Exceptions—Gaiety, said, paid, laid.

2. ETYMOLOGY OR PARTS OF SPEECH

Their Grammatical Significations and Abbreviations.

THE WORDS that constitute our language are classified under eight different heads, called "parts of speech"; and, independently of the articles a, an and the, consist of the NOUN, the ADJECTIVE, the PRONOUN, the VERB, the ADVERB, the PREPOSITION, the CONJUNCTION and the INTERJECTION; and each word in the Dictionary is referred to one or other of these categories according to the functions, thus:—

n. representing	noun or substantive.		adv. representing	adverb.
adj. "	adjective.		prep. "	preposition.
pron. "	pronoun.		conj. "	conjunction.
v. "	verb.		interj. "	interjection.

As the first four parts of speech vary in inflection or otherwise, these changes are indicated thus:—

v. t.	representing	verb-transitive.
v. i.	"	verb-neuter or intransitive.
p. adj.	"	participial adjective.
p. p.	"	past participle.
p. pr.	"	present participle.
p. t.	"	past tense.

To one or other of the above Parts of Speech each of the many thousand words of which our language is composed belongs, and the same word may belong to this or that division, according to its function in a sentence. Thus, a word is a NOUN or SUBSTANTIVE when it names a thing, whether that be a substance or an abstraction, being called a noun as naming, and a substantive as capable of qualification. An ADJECTIVE

(from the Latin adjectum) is a word "added to" a substantive to qualify it in some way, and in general at once amplify its meaning and limit its application. A PRONOUN (from the Latin pro nomine) is a word used "in place of a noun" to avoid its repetition, as well as to indicate certain rhetorical relations or logical connections. The VERB (from the Latin verbum) is "the word" of a sentence, and that which makes the assertion, as well as asks a question or expresses a command, and is here called active when it is transitive, and neuter (i. e., neither active nor passive) when it is not. An ADVERB (from the Latin ad verbum) is a word properly appended "to a verb" to express some modifying circumstance of place, time, manner or cause regarding it, but is also used to qualify attributive words like adjectives as well as verbs. The PREPOSITION (from the Latin praepositum) is a word "placed before" a noun or pronoun to show its relation to some other word in the sentence, and was originally expressive, for most part, of place-relation. The CONJUNCTION (from the Latin conjunctio) is a word used to "join together" sentences or clauses of sentences, and to indicate the relation in which these stand to each other. The INTERJECTION (from the Latin interjectum) is an abrupt exclamation "thrown between" the words of a sentence to express some related emotion on the part of the speaker. On referring to the Dictionary, the student will find many words which are of different parts of speech, and verbs which are both active and neuter, according to the senses in which they are used; but these are all clearly distinguished, and the definitions given accordingly.

3. SYNTAX

SYNTAX treats of the manner of connecting words into regular sentences by relation, agreement, government, and arrangement.

The relation of words is their dependence, or direct conformity to all and to each other, according to sense.

The agreement of words is their similarity in person, number, gender, case, mood, tense, or form.

The government of words is the power of one word over another to make it assume some particular modification. Government has respect only to nouns, pronouns, verbs, and prepositions, the last governing but not being governed; the other four parts of speech neither govern nor are governed. In parsing, the rules of government are not applied to the governing words, but to those which are governed.

The arrangement of words is their disposition, or relative position in a sentence, and this is an important part of syntax, in which not only the beauty but the propriety of language is intimately concerned, and to which particular attention is paid in correct composition.

The principles of analysis or parsing are more fundamental than the technical considerations which form the groundwork of syntactical rules, and relate to the resolving or explaining of a sentence, or of some related word or words, according to the definitions and rules of grammar. Snytax refers to those principles and rules which serve as guides in the construction of sentences. Snytactical rules are limited to the construction of sentences, as separate portions of discourse. The consideration of principles and rules regulating the combination of sentences into paragraphs, and these again into particular kinds of composition, is not comprised in the subject of grammar, but falls within the province of its kindred arts, rhetoric and logic.

A long-established general rule and comprehensive canon of syntax is the following:

"In the formation of sentences, the consistency and adaptation of all the words should be carefully observed; and a regular, clear and correspondent construction should be preserved throughout."

4. PROSODY

Prosody treats of punctuation, utterance, figures, and versification.

PUNCTUATION

Punctuation is the art of pointing written composition in such a manner as may naturally lead to its proper meaning, construction, and delivery; and it thus indicates the several pauses, or rests, between sentences, and parts of sentences, according to their proper quantity or proportion, as they are expressed in just and accurate pronunciation.

The following are the principal stops or pauses in a sentence, viz., the comma (,), the semicolon (;), the colon (:), the period, or full point (.), the note of admiration or exclamation (!), and the note of interrogation (?).

The comma (,) is a pause in reading, or slight break in sense, and is mostly used to distinguish nouns, verbs, adjectives, and adverbs; as, "It is very difficult to make fine pictures, handsome statues, good music, good verses." It likewise prevents ambiguity in the sense: as, "Epistolary writing, by which a great part of the commerce of human life is carried on, was esteemed by the Romans a liberal and polite accomplishment." When an address is made to a person, answering to the vocative case in Latin, a comma is placed before and after the noun: as, "Commune with thyself, O man, and consider wherefore thou wast made."

The semicolon (;) is a pause somewhat longer than the comma, and is used to distinguish the different members or parts of a sentence: as, "A vain hope flattereth the heart of a fool; but he who is wise pursueth it not. Be grateful to thy father, for he gave thee life; and to thy mother, for she sustained thee."

The colon (:) is a pause in reading of still greater length, and shows the preceding sentence to be perfect and entire, only that some remark, further illustration, or other matter connected therewith, is subjoined: as, "He who giveth away his treasure wisely, giveth away his plagues: he who retaineth its increase, heapeth up sorrow."

The period, or full point (.), indicates a complete or temporary rest of the voice, and denotes a full and perfect sentence, which is always distinguished by this point: as, "A noble spirit disdaineth the malice of fortune. His greatness of soul is not to be cast down."

The note of admiration (!) is used to express wonder, or exclamation: as, "Who art thou, O man! who presumest on thine own wisdom?"

The note of interrogation (?) is used to show when a question is asked: as, "What day of the month is this?" It likewise distinguishes a real question from a sentence in the imperative mood: as, "Do you hear me?"

Besides the above points, there are other marks made use of in books and writing as references, or to point out something remarkable or defective: as,

Accent (') placed over a vowel, or the last consonant of a syllable, shows the stress of the voice, in pronouncing a word, to be on that syllable over or immediately before which it is placed.

Apostrophe (’), is a comma placed over a word, to denote the omission of a letter, for the sake of a quicker pronounciation: as, plac'd for placed, ne'er for never.

Asterism, or asterisk (*) a star, and Parallel (||), direct to some note at the foot of the page.

Obelisk or Dagger (†), refers likewise to some note in the margin, &c.; and in dictionaries it commonly shows the word to be obsolete.

The Index, or Hand (☞), points to some very remarkable passage.

Breve (˘) over a vowel, denotes that it sounds short.

Circumflex (^), or (¯), is placed over a vowel to denote a long syllable: as, Euphrâtes, or Euphrātes.

Diaeresis (¨), consists of two points placed over one of two conjoining vowels, thus dividing them into two syllables: as, aërial.

Hyphen (-), is a short line to join syllables or words together.

Parenthesis, marked thus ( ), serves to include a sentence which might be omitted, without any prejudice to the general meaning; notwithstanding it may be necessary for the explanation thereof: as, "Pardon me (added she, embracing me), I now believe what you say."

Dash (—), is used when the sense breaks off abruptly, or is temporarily suspended and continued after a short interruption. A double dash, at beginning and end of an introduced phrase, is now frequently employed in place of the parenthesis.

Bracket, or Crotchet, thus [ ], includes such a word from the sentence as serves to explain the word immediately preceding: as, "A treatise of [concerning] English Grammar."

Paragraph (¶), denotes the beginning of a new subject.——The pause here may be greater than a period.

Section (§), is used to divide a chapter into less particular arguments.

Ellipsis, marked thus (——), or (....), denotes that part of a word is left out: as, K——g, for King.

Caret (∧). is placed underneath a line to show that some letter, word or sentence is left out by mistake, and must be inserted exactly in that place.

Quotation (“), is a double comma reversed at the beginning of a line, which shows that a passage is quoted, or transcribed, from some author in his own words.

Utterance, or the art of vocal expression, includes the principles of pronunciation and elocution.

Pronunciation, as distinguished from elocution, is the utterance of words taken separately, and requires a knowledge of the just powers of the letters in all their combinations, and of the force and seat of the accent. The just powers of the letters are those sounds which are given to them by the best readers. Accent is the peculiar stress laid upon some particular syllable of a word, whereby that syllable is distinguished from the rest. Every word of more than one syllable has one of its syllables accented. When the word is long, for the sake of harmony or distinctness, a secondary or less forcible accent is often given to another syllable.

A full and open pronunciation of the long vowel sounds, a clear articulation of the consonants, a forcible and well-placed accent, and a distinct utterance of the unaccented syllables, distinguish the elegant speaker.

Elocution is the utterance of words that are arranged into sentences, and form discourse.

Elocution requires a knowledge and right application of emphasis, pauses, inflections and tones. Emphasis is the peculiar stress of voice which is laid upon some particular word or words in a sentence, thereby distinguishing them from the rest as being more especially significant. Pauses are cessations in utterance, which serve equally to relieve the speaker and to render language intelligible and pleasing. The duration of the pauses should be proportionate to the degree of connection between the parts of the discourse. Inflections are those peculiar variations of the human voice by which a continuous sound is made to pass from one note, key or pitch into another. The passage of the voice from a lower to a higher note is called the rising or upward inflection, and the contrary, the falling or downward inflection. An example of the rising inflection is: "Do you mean to go?"; of the falling inflection, "When will you go?" Questions that may be answered by yes or no require the rising inflection; those that demand any other answer must be uttered with the falling inflection. Tones are those modulations of the voice which depend upon the feelings of the speaker, and are what Sheridan denominates "the language of emotions." It is of the utmost importance that they be natural, unaffected and rightly adapted to the subject and to the occasion; for upon them, in a great measure, depends all that is pleasing or interesting in elocution.

FIGURES, in grammar, are intentional deviations from the ordinary spelling, formation, construction or application of words, and are known as figures of orthography, of etymology, of syntax, and of rhetoric. When figures are judiciously employed they both strengthen and adorn expression. They occur more frequently in poetry than in prose; and several of them are merely poetic licenses.

VERSIFICATION

VERSIFICATION is the arrangement of a certain number of syllables according to certain laws established in a language by frequent repetition, the harmony of which consists in a pleasing variety of accented and unaccented syllables, which, connected, form a foot. They are called feet, because it is by their aid that the voice, as it were, steps along through the verse, in a measured pace: and it is necessary that the syllables, which mark this regular movement of the voice, should, in some manner, be distinguished from the others. This distinction was made among the Greeks and Romans, by dividing their syllables into long and short, and ascertaining the quantity by an exact proportion of time in sounding them; the long being to the short as two to one, and the long syllables, being thus the more important, marked the movement. In English, syllables are divided into accented and unaccented; and the accented syllables, being as strongly distinguished from the unaccented, by the peculiar stress of the voice upon them, are equally capable of marking the movement, and pointing out the regular paces of the voice, as the long syllables were, by their quantity, among the ancients.

All feet used in poetry consist either of two or of three syllables, and are reducible to eight kinds; four of two syllables, viz. a Trochee, an Iambus, a Spondee, a Pyrrhic; and four of three syllables, viz. a Dactyl, an Amphibrach, an Anapæst, and a Tribrach.

A Trochee has the first syllable accented, and the last unaccented; as, "Hātefŭl, pēttish."

An Iambus has the first syllable unaccented, and the last accented; as, "Bĕtrāy, cŏnsīst."

A Spondee has both the words or syllables accented. No word of two syllables is without an accent, or with a double one in English; as, "The pāle mŏon."

A Pyrrhic has both the words or syllables unaccented; as, "ŏn the tall tree."

A Dactyl has the first syllable accented, and the two latter unaccented; as, "Lābŏrĕr, pōs'sĭblĕ."

An Amphibrach has the first and last syllables unaccented; and the middle one accented; as, "Dĕli'ghtfŭl, doméstic."

An Anapæst has the first two syllables unaccented, and the last accented; as, "Contrāvē'ne, acquiésce."

A Tribrach has three syllables unaccented; as, "Nūmĕrăblĕ, cónquerable."

Some of these feet may be denominated principal feet; as pieces of poetry may be wholly or chiefly formed of any of them. Such are the Trochee, Iambus, Dactyl, and Anapæst, which we shall endeavor to explain. The others may be termed secondary feet; because their chief use is to diversify the numbers, and to improve the verse.

Iambic verses may be divided into several species, according to the number of feet or syllables of which they are composed.

The first form of our Iambic which we shall notice is too short to be continued through any great number of lines. It consists of two Iambuses.

Whăt plāce ĭs hēre!
What scenes appear!
To me the rose
No longer glows.

The second form consists of three Iambuses.

In plācĕs fār ŏr nēar,
Or famous or obscure,
where wholesome is the air,
Or where the most impure.

The third form is made up of four Iambuses.

And māy ăt lāst my wēary āge,
Find out the peaceful hermitage.

The fourth species of English Iambic consists of five Iambuses.

Hŏw lōv'd, hŏw vālū'd ōnce, ăvăils thĕe nōt,
To whom related, or by whom begot:
A heap of dust alone remains of thee:
'Tis all thou art, and all the proud shall be.

This is called the Heroic measure. In its simplest form it consists of five Iambuses; but by the admission of other feet, as Trochees, Dactyls, Anapæsts, etc., it is capable of many varieties.

The sixth form of our Iambic is commonly called the Alexandrine measure. It consists of six Iambuses.

Fŏr thōu ărt būt ŏf dūst; bĕ hūmblĕ ānd bĕ wīse.

In all these measures the accents are to be placed on even syllables; and every line considered by itself is, in general, more melodious, as this rule is more strictly observed.

Trochaic verse is of several kinds.

The shortest Trochaic verse in our language consists of one Trochee and a long syllable; but this measure is defective in dignity, and can seldom be used.

The second English form of the Trochaic consists of two feet:

On thĕ mōuntāin
By a fountain.

It sometimes contains two feet or trochees, and an additional long syllable; as,

In thĕ dāys ŏf ōld
Fables plainly told.

The third species consists of three trochees; as,

Whēn ŏur hēarts ăre mōurning;

or of three trochees with an additional long syllable; as,

Rēstlĕss mōrtāls tōil fŏr nōught;
Bliss in vain from earth is sought.

The fourth Trochaic species consists of four trochees; as,

Rōund ŭs rōars thĕ tēmpĕst lōudĕr.

The fifth Trochaic species is uncommon. It is composed of five trochees.

All thăt wālk ŏn fōot ŏr rīde ĭn chārĭŏts,
All that dwell in palaces or garrets.

The sixth form of the English trochaic consists of six trochees; as,

On ă mōuntāin, strētch'd bĕnēath ă hōary wīllŏw,
Lay a shepherd swain, and view'd the rolling billow.

In all these trochaic measures the accent is to be placed on the odd syllables.

Of the DACTYLIC measure we shall give only one example:

Frōm thĕ lŏw plēasurĕs of thīs făllĕn nātŭre
Rise we to higher, &c.

ANAPÆSTIC verses are divided into several species, the first and simplest of which is made up of two anapæsts; as,

Bŭt hĭs cōurāge 'găn fāil,
For no arts could avail.

The second species consists of three anapæsts.

O yĕ wōods, spрĕad yŏur brānchĕs ăpāce;
To your deepest recesses I fly;
I would hide with the beasts of the chase;
I would vanish from every eye.

This is a very pleasing measure, and much used, both in solemn and cheerful subjects.

The third kind of the English anapæst consists of four anapæsts.

Măy I gŏvĕrn my pāssĭons wĭth ăbsŏlŭte swāy,
And grow wiser and better as life wears away.

The preceding are the different kinds of the principal feet, in their more simple forms. They are capable of numerous variations by the intermixture of those feet with each other, and by the admission of the secondary feet by which two short vowels coalesce into one syllable, as question, special; or when a word is contracted by the expulsion of a short vowel before a liquid, as av'rice, temp'rance, &c.

Simplified Spelling

Twenty Classes and Three Hundred Words

THE SIMPLIFIED SPELLING BOARD, in Circular No. 2, issued March 21, 1906, mentions twenty distinguishable classes of words, and includes a list of three hundred common words spelled in two ways, of which the BOARD says: "choose the simpler spelling."

The twenty distinguishable classes of words, arranged in the alphabetical order of the letters or affixes affected, are as follows:

1. Words spelled with AE or E. Rule: Choose E. Ex.: Anesthetic, esthetic, medieval, etc.

2. Words spelled with -DGE-MENT or -DG-MENT. Rule: Omit E. Ex.: Abridgment, acknowledgment, judgment, lodgment.

3. Words spelled with -ED or -T, the preceding single consonant being doubled before -ED (-pped, -ssed) and left single before -T (-pt, -st). Rule: Choose -T in all cases. Ex.: dipt, dript, dropt, stept, stopt, etc., blest, prest, distrest, mist, etc., blusht, husht, washt, etc.

(Forms like these, being inflections, are commonly omitted in the dictionary lists of words spelled in two or more ways, but they are genuine historical spellings and cannot be ignored. Some are very ancient (for example, kist is Anglo-Saxon cyste, and mist is Anglo-Saxon miste), and all are frequent and normal in English literature from Spenser, Shakespeare, and Milton to Tennyson and Lowell. For example, Milton has compast, languisht, vanquisht, admonisht, astonisht, diminisht, polisht, worshipt, supt, ceast, linkt, matcht, scorcht, etc.—SIMPLIFIED SPELLING BOARD.)

4. Words spelled with -ENCE or -ENSE (Latin -ENS-A). Rule: Choose -ENSE. Ex.: Defense, offense, pretense.

5. Words spelled with -ETTE or -ET. Rule: Omit -TE. Ex.: Coquet, epaulet, etiquet, omelet, etc.

6. Words spelled with GH or F. Rule: Choose F. Ex.: Draft.

7. Words spelled with -GH or without. (1) -OUGH or -OW. Rule: Choose -OW. Ex.: Plow. (2) -OUGH or O. Rule: Choose -O. Ex.: Altho (Bunyan), tho (Bunyan), thoro, -boro (in place names).

8. Words with the verb suffix, of Greek origin, spelled -ISE or -IZE. Rule: Choose IZE. Ex.: Catechise, criticize, exorcize, legalize, etc.

9. Words spelled with -ITE or -IT. Rule: Omit E. Ex.: Deposit, preterit.

10. Words spelled with -LL or -L (-ILL or -IL). Rule: Choose -L. Ex.: Distil, fulfil, instil.

11. Words spelled with -LL-NESS or -L-NESS. Rule: Omit one L. Ex.: Dulness, fulness.

12. Words spelled with -MME or -M. Rule: Omit -ME. Ex.: Gram, program.

13. Words spelled with OE or E. Rule: Choose E. Ex.: Ecumenical, esophagus.

14. Words spelled with -OUR or -OR. Rule: Choose -OR. Ex.: Favor, fervor, flavor, honor, labor, rigor, rumor, tenor, tumor, valor, vapor, vigor.

15. Words spelled with PH or F. Rule: Choose -F. Ex.: Fantasm, fantasy, fantom, sulfate, sulfur.

16. Words spelled with -RE or -R. Rule: Omit one R. Ex.: Bur, pur.

17. Words spelled with -RE or -ER. Rule: Choose -ER. Ex.: Center, meter, miter, niter, sepulcher, theater.

18. Words spelled with s or z (in the root). Rule: Choose z. Ex.: Apprize, assize, comprize, raze, surprize, teazel.

19. Words spelled with S- or SC-. Rule: Omit C. Ex.: Simitar, sithe.

20. Words spelled with or without silent -UE. Rule: Omit -UE. Ex.: Catalog, decalog, demagog, pedagog, prolog.

SYNONYMS AND ANTONYMS

Over Eleven Thousand Words of Similar and Contrary Meaning

A COLLECTION of Synonyms and Antonyms is one of the most desirable aids in epistolary and literary composition, to facilitate the expression of ideas. In its vocabulary are found along with a word expressing a definite idea, Synonyms, or words of similar meaning, by which that idea may be repeated and aptly expressed, without tautology, and also Antonyms, or words of opposite meaning, which as antithesis or contrast, afford one of the strongest figures of speech.

To embody in exact and appropriate expression the various trains of ideas that pass through the mind, or to depict in true colors and proportions, the diversified and nicer shades of feeling which accompany them, a Synonym or Antonym often saves the cost of a clumsy paraphase, spares the labor of a tortuous circumlocution, and while adding a graceful facility of diction to the composition, frequently opens up a whole vista of collateral ideas.

The following collection of Synonyms and Antonyms, while not exhaustive, is comprehensive, and by cross-reference will answer most requirements.

Facts About the Earth

ACCORDING to Clark, the equatorial semi-diameter is 20,926,202 feet=3963.296 miles, and the polar semi-diameter is 20,854,895 feet=3950.738 miles. One degree of latitude at the pole=69.407 miles. One degree of latitude at the equator=68.704 miles.

POPULATION OF THE EARTH BY CONTINENTS

(From Proceedings of the Royal Geographical Society.)

CONTINENTAL DIVISIONS.	Area in Square Miles.	INHABITANTS.
		Number.	Per Sq. Mile.
Australasia	3,288,000	4,730,000	1.40
Europe....	3,555,000	380,200,000	106.90
Polar Reg..	4,888,800	300,000	0.07
Total.....	51,238,800	1,487,900,000	29.00

The above estimate was made by Ernest George Ravenstein, F. R. G. S., the geographer and statistician, and is for 1890. The population of North America, 1900, had increased to over 100,000,000.

An estimate of population of the earth, made by Drs. Wagner and Supan, editors of "Bevölkerung der Erde" (Perthes, Gotha, 1891), is as follows: Europe, 357,379,000; Asia, 825,954,000; Africa, 163,953,000; America, 121,713,000; Australia, 3,230,000; Oceanic Islands, 7,420,000; polar regions, 80,400. Total, 1,479,729,400. The estimate of area of the continents and islands by the same authorities is 52,821,684.

Ravenstein's estimate of the earth's fertile region, in square miles, is 28,269,200; steppe, 13,901,000; desert, 4,180,000; polar regions, 4,888,800.

The population of the earth at the death of the Emperor Augustus, estimated by Bodio, was 54,000,000. The population of Europe hardly exceeded 50,000,000 before the fifteenth century.—Mulhall.

The area and cubic contents of the earth, according to the data of Clark, given above, are: Surface, 196,971,984 square miles; cubic contents, 259,944,035,515 cubic miles.

Murray-Challenger expedition states the greatest depth of the Atlantic Ocean, at 27,366 feet; Pacific Ocean, 30,000 feet; Indian Ocean, 18,582 feet; Southern Ocean, 25,200 feet; Arctic Ocean, 9,000 feet. The Atlantic Ocean has an area, in square miles, of 24,536,000; Pacific Ocean, 50,309,000; Indian Ocean, 17,084,000; Arctic Ocean 4,781,000; Southern Ocean, 30,592,000. The highest mountain is believed to be Deodhunga, one of the Himalayas, 29,002 feet.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

IN CONGRESS—THURSDAY, JULY 4, 1776

AGREEABLY to the order of the day, the Congress resolved itself into a committee of the whole, to take into their further, consideration the Declaration; and after some time the President resumed the chair, and Mr. Harrison reported that the committee had agreed to a declaration, which they desired him to report. (The committee consisted of Jefferson, Franklin, John Adams, Sherman and R. R. Livingston.)

The Declaration being read, was agreed to, as follows:

A DECLARATION.

By the Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress Assembled.

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these, are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed: that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established, should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature; a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining, in the mean time, exposed to all the danger of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states, for that purpose, obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislature.

He has affected to render the military indpendent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined, with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment, for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the powers of our governments;

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tryanny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction, of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress, in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts made by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war—in peace, friends.

We, therefore the representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in GENERAL CONGRESS assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right to do. And, for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of DIVINE PROVIDENCE, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

The foregoing Declaration was, by order of Congress, engrossed, and signed by the following members:

JOHN HANCOCK.

THE CONSTITUTION

OF THE

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA*

[PREAMBLE.]

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquillity, provide for the common defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this CONSTITUTION for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

[The Legislative Department.]

SECTION 1. All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SEC. 2. The House of Representatives shall be composed of Members chosen every second Year by the People of the several States, and the Electors in each State shall have the Qualifications requisite for Electors of the most numerous Branch of the State Legislature.

No Person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the Age of twenty-five Years, and been seven Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct Taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective Numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole Number of free Persons, including those bound to Service for a Term of Years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons.* The actual Enumeration shall be made within three Years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent Term of ten Years, in such Manner as they shall by Law direct. The Number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty Thousand, but each State shall have at Least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to chuse three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode-Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the Representation from any State, the Executive Authority thereof shall issue Writs of Election to fill such Vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall chuse their Speaker and other officers† and shall have the sole power of Impeachment.

SEC. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six Years; and each Senator shall have one Vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in Consequence of the first Election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three Classes. The Seats of the Senators of the first Class shall be vacated at the Expiration of the second Year, of the second Class at the Expiration of the fourth Year and of the third Class at the Expiration of the sixth Year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if Vacancies happen by Resignation, or otherwise during the Recess of the Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary Appointments until the next Meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such Vacancies.

No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained the Age of thirty Years, and been nine Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no Vote, unless they be equally divided.

The Senate shall chuse their other Officers, and also a President, pro tempor, in the Absence of the Vice President, or when he shall exercise the Office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have the sole Power to try all Impeachments. When sitting for that Purpose, they shall be on Oath or Affirmation. When the President of United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: And no person shall be convicted without the Concurrence of two-thirds of the Members present.

Judgment in Cases of Impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from Office, and Disqualification to hold and enjoy any Office of Honor, Trust or Profit under the United States: but the Party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to Indictment. Trial, Judgment and Punishment, according to Law.

SEC. 4. The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by Law make or alter such Regulations, except as to the places of chusing Senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every Year, and such Meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by Law appoint a different Day.

SEC. 5. Each House shall be the Judge of the Elections, Returns and Qualifications of its own Members, and a Majority of each shall constitute a Quorum to do Business; but a smaller Number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the Attendance of absent Members, in such Manner, and under such Penalties as each House may provide.

Each House may determine the Rules of its Proceedings, punish its Members for disorderly Behaviour, and, with the Concurrence of two-thirds, expel a Member.

Each House shall keep a Journal of its Proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such Parts as may in their Judgment require Secrecy; and the Yeas and Nays of the Members of either House on any question shall, at the Desire of one-fifth of those Present, be entered on the Journal.

Neither House, during the Session of Congress, shall, without the Consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other Place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

SEC. 6. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a Compensation* for their Services, to be ascertained by Law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all Cases, except Treason, Felony and Breach of the Peace, be privileged from Arrest during their Attendance at the Session of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any Speech or Debate in either House, they shall not be questioned in any other Place.

No Senator or Representative shall, during the Time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil Office under the Authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the Emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no Person holding any Office under the United States, shall be a Member of either House during his Continuance in Office.

SEC. 7. All bills for raising Revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with Amendments as on other Bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it becomes a Law, be presented to the President of the United States; If he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his Objections to the House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the Objections at large on their Journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such Reconsideration two-thirds of that House shall agree to pass the Bill, it shall be sent, together with the Objections to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that House it shall become a Law. But in all such Cases the Votes of Both Houses shall be determined by Yeas and Nays, and the Names of the Persons voting for and against the Bill shall be entered on the Journal of each House respectively. If any Bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the Same shall be a law, in like Manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their Adjournment prevent its Return, in which Case it shall not be a Law.

Every Order, Resolution, or Vote to which the Concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of Adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take Effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the Rules and Limitations prescribed in the Case of a Bill.

SEC. 8. The Congress shall have Power:

To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

To borrow Money on credit of the United States;

To regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes;

To establish an uniform Rule of Naturalization,* and uniform Laws on the subject of Bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin Money, regulate the Value thereof, and of foreign Coin, and fix the Standard of Weights and Measures;

To provide for the Punishment of counterfeiting the Securities and current Coin of the United States;

To establish Post Offices and post Roads;

To promote the progress of Science and useful Arts, by securing for limited Times to Authors and Inventors the exclusive Right† to their respective Writings and Discoveries;

To constitute Tribunals inferior to the supreme Court;

To define and punish Piracies and Felonies committed on the high Seas, and Offences against the Law of Nations;

To declare War, grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal, and make Rules concerning Captures on Land and Water;

To raise and support Armies, but no Appropriation of Money to that Use shall be for a longer Term than two Years;

To provide and maintain a Navy;

To make Rules for the Government and Regulation of the land and naval Forces;

To provide for calling forth the Militia to execute the Laws of the Union, suppress Insurrections and repel Invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining, the Militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the Service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively, the Appointment of the Officers, and the Authority of training the Militia according to the Discipline prescribed by Congress;

To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such Dis-

To make all Laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into Execution the foregoing Powers, and all other Powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any Department or Officer thereof.

SEC. 9. The Migration or Importation of such Persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the Year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a Tax or Duty may be imposed on such Importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each Person.

The Privilege of the Writ of Habeas Corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in Cases of Rebellion or Invasion the public safety may require it.

No Bill of Attainder or ex post facto Law shall be passed.

No Capitulation, or other direct Tax shall be laid, unless in Proportion to the Census or Enumeration herein before directed to be taken.

No Tax or Duty shall be laid on Articles exported from any State.

No Preference shall be given by any Regulation of Commerce or Revenue to the Ports of one State over those of another; nor shall Vessels bound to, or from, one State, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay Duties in another.

No Money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law; and a regular Statement and Account of the Receipts and Expenditures of all public Money shall be published from time to time.

No Title of Nobility shall be granted by the United States: And no Person holding any Office of Profit or Trust under them, shall, without the Consent of the Congress, accept of any present, Emolument, Office, or Title, of any kind whatever, from any King, Prince, or foreign State.

SEC. 10. No State shall enter into any Treaty, Alliance, or Confederation; grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal; coin Money; emit Bills of Credit; make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts; pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or grant any Title of Nobility.

No State shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any Imposts or Duties on Imports or Exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection Laws; and the net Produce of all Duties and Imposts laid by any State on Imports or Exports, shall be for the Use of the Treasury of the United States; and all such Laws shall be subject to the Revision and Controul of the Congress.

No State shall, without the Consent of Congress, lay any Duty of Tonnage, keep Troops, or Ships of War in time of Peace, enter into any Agreement or Compact with another State, or with a foreign Power, or engage in War, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent Danger as will not admit of Delay.

ARTICLE II.

[The Executive Department.]

SECTION. 1. The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his Office during the Term of four Years, and, together with the Vice President, chosen for the same Term, be elected as follows:

Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress: but no Senator or Representative, or Person holding an Office of Trust or Profit under the United States, shall be appointed an Elector.

* The Electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by Ballot for two Persons, of whom one at least shall not be an Inhabitant of the same

* This clause has been superseded by the 12th Amendment.

State with themselves. And they shall make a List of all the Persons voted for, and of the Number of Votes for each; which List they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the Seat of the Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the Presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the Certificates, and the Votes shall then be counted. The Person having the greatest Number of Votes shall be the President, if such Number be a Majority of the whole Number of Electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such Majority and have an equal Number of Votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately chuse by Ballot one of them for President; and if no Person have a Majority, then from five highest on the List the said House shall in like Manner chuse the President. But in chusing the President, the Votes shall be taken by States, the Representation from each State having one Vote; a Quorum for this Purpose shall consist of a Member or Members from two-thirds of the States, and a Majority of all the States shall be necessary to a Choice. In every Case, after the Choice of the President, the Person having the greatest Number of Votes of the Electors shall be the Vice President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal Votes, the Senate shall chuse from them by Ballot the Vice President.

The Congress may determine the Time of chusing the Electors, and the Day on which they shall give their Votes; which Day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No Person except a natural born Citizen, or a Citizen of the United States, at the time of the Adoption of this Constitution shall be eligible to the Office of President; neither shall any Person be eligible to that Office who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty-five Years, and been fourteen Years a Resident within the United States.

In Case of the Removal of the President from Office, or of his Death, Resignation, or Inability to discharge the Powers and Duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice President, and the Congress may by Law provide for the Case of Removal, Death, Resignation, or Inability, both of the President and Vice President, declaring what Officer shall then act as President, and such Officer shall act accordingly, until the Disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

The President shall, at stated Times, receive for his Services, a Compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the Period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that Period any other Emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the Execution of his Office, he shall take the following Oath or Affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) "that I will faithfully execute the "Office of President of the United "States, and will to the best of my "Ability, preserve, protect and defend "the Constitution of the United "States."

SEC. 2. The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal Officer in each of the executive Departments, upon any subject relating to the Duties of their respective Offices, and he shall have Power to grant Reprieves and Pardons for Offences against the United States, except in Cases of Impeachment.

He shall have Power, by and with the Adivce and Consent of the Senate, to make Treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the Advice and Consent of the Senate, shall appoint Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls, Judges of the supreme Court, and all other Officers of the United States, whose Appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by Law; but the Congress may by Law vest the Appointment of such inferior Officers, as they think proper, in the President alone, in the Courts of Law, or in the Heads of Departments.

The President shall have Power to fill up all Vacancies that may happen during the Recess of the Senate, by granting Commissions which shall expire at the End of their next Session.

SEC. 3. He shall from time to time give to the Congress Information of the State of the Union, and recommend to their Consideration such Measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary Occasions, convene both Houses, or either of them, and in Case of Disagreement between them, with Respect to the time of Adjournment, he may adjourn them to such Time as he shall think proper; he shall receive Ambassadors and other public Ministers; he shall take Care that the Laws be faithfully executed, and shall Commission all the officers of the United States.

SEC. 4. The President, Vice President and all civil Officers of the United States, shall be removed from Office on Impeachment for, and Conviction of, Treason, Bribery, or other high Crimes and Misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

[The Judicial Department.]

SECTION 1. The Judicial Power of the United States, shall be vested in one supreme Court, and in such inferior Courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The Judges, both of the supreme and inferior Courts, shall hold their Offices during good behaviour, and shall, at stated times, receive for their Services, a Compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in Office.

SEC. 2. The judicial Power shall extend to all Cases, in Law and Equity, arising under this Constitution, the Laws of the United States, and Treaties made, or which shall be made, under their Authority;—to all Cases affecting Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls;—to all Cases of admiralty and maritime Jurisdiction;— to Controversies to which the United States shall be a Party;—to Controversies between two or more States;— between a State and Citizens of another State;—between Citizens of different States,—between Citizens of the same State claiming Lands under Grants of different States, and between a State, or the Citizens thereof and foreign States, Citizens or Subjects.

In all Cases affecting Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls, and those in which a State shall be Party, the supreme Court shall have original Jurisdiction. In all the other Cases before mentioned, the supreme Court shall have appellate Jurisdiction, both as to Law and Fact, with such Exceptions, and under such Regulations as the Congress shall make.

The Trial of all Crimes, except in Cases of Impeachment, shall be by Jury; and such Trial shall be held in the State where the said Crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the Trial shall be at such Place or Places as the Congress may by Law have directed.

SEC. 3. Treason against the United States, shall consist only in levying War against them, or in adhering to their Enemies, giving them Aid and Comfort. No Person shall be convicted of Treason unless on the Testimony of two Witnesses to the same overt Act, or on Confession in open Court.

The Congress shall have Power to declare the Punishment of Treason, but no Attainder of Treason shall work Corruption of Blood, or Forfeiture except during the Life of the Person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

[Miscellaneous.]

SECTION. 1. Full Faith and Credit shall be given in each State to the public Acts, Records and judicial Proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records and Proceedings shall be proved, and the Effect thereof.

SEC. 2. The Citizens of each State shall be entitled to all Privileges and Immunities of Citizens in the several States.

A Person charged in any State with Treason, Felony, or other Crime, who shall flee from Justice, and be found in another State, shall on Demand of the executive Authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having Jurisdiction of the Crime.

No Person held to Service or Labour in one State, under the Laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in Consequence of any Law or Regulation therein, be discharged from such Service or Labour, but shall be delivered up on Claim of the Party to whom such Service or Labour may be due.

SEC. 3. New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the Jurisdiction of any other State; nor any State be formed by the Junction of two or more States, or Parts of States, without the Consent of the Legislatures of the States concerned as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory or other Property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to Prejudice any Claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

SEC. 4. The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government, and shall protect each of them against Invasion, and on Application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic Violence.

ARTICLE V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose Amendments to this Constitution, or, on the Application of the Legislature of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing Amendments, which, in either Case, shall be valid to all Intents and Purposes, as Part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by Conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other Mode of Ratification may be proposed by the Congress; Provided that no Amendment which may be made prior to the Year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any Manner affect the first and fourth Clauses in the Ninth Section of the first Article; and that no State, without its Consent, shall be deprived of its equal Suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

All Debts contracted and Engagements entered into, before the Adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution, as under the Confederation.

This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States shall be the Supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any Thing in the Constitution or Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithstanding.

The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the Members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial Officers, both of the United States, and of the several States, shall be bound by Oath or Affirmation, to support this Constitution; but no religious Test shall ever be required as a qualification to any Office or public Trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The Ratification of the Conventions of Nine States, shall be sufficient for the Establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

DONE in Convention by the Unanimous Consent of the States present the Seventeenth Day of September in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and Eighty-seven and of the Independence of the United States of America the Twelfth. IN WITNESS whereof We have hereunto subscribed our Names,

AMENDMENTS

TO

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Proposed by Congress, and ratified by the Legislatures of the Several States, pursuant to the fifth article of the original Constitution.

AMENDMENT I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

AMENDMENT II.

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

AMENDMENT III.

No Soldier shall, in time of peace be quartered in any house, without the consent of the Owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

AMENDMENT IV.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the person or things to be seized.

AMENDMENT V.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any Criminal Case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

AMENDMENT VI.

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have Compulsory process for obtaining Witnesses in his favor, and to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defence.

AMENDMENT VII.

In Suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise reexamined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

AMENDMENT VIII.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

AMENDMENT IX.

The enumeration of the Constitution of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

AMENDMENT X.*

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

AMENDMENT XI.†

The Judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by Citizens of another State, or by Citizens or Subjects of any Foreign State.

AMENDMENT XII.‡

The Electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for President and Vice President, one of whom at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transfer sealed to the seat of the government of the United States directed to the President of the Senate;—The President of the Senate shall, in presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted;—The person having the greatest number of votes for President, shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of Electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers no exceeding three on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice President, shall be the Vice President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of Electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice President of the United States.

AMENDMENT XIII.*

SECTION 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

SEC. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

* The first ten amendments were proposed at the first session of the first Congress (1789), and declared adopted in 1791.

† The eleventh amendment was proposed at the first session of the third Congress (1794), and declared adopted in 1798.

‡ This amendment is substituted for Clause 3, Sec. 1., Art. II., page 934, and annuls it. It was declared adopted in 1804.

* The thirteenth amendment was proposed at the second session of the thirty-eighth Congress (1865), and declared adopted in 1865.

AMENDMENT XIV.†

SECTION 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law, nor deny any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

SEC. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each state, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of Electors for President and Vice President of the United States, representatives in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a state, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such state, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such state.

SEC. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or Elector of President and Vice President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any state, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any state Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any state, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each house, remove such disability.

SEC. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts obligations, and claims shall be held illegal and void.

SEC. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

AMENDMENT XV.*

SECTION 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any state, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

SEC. 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

† The fourteenth amendment was first proposed at the first session of the thirty-ninth Congress, 1866, and declared adopted in 1868.

* The fifteenth amendment was proposed at the second session of the fortieth Congress, in 1869, and declared adopted in 1870.

Weather Forecasts

ALMANAC predictions can be nothing but conjecture, the earth's subjection to many unknowable and undeterminable forces rendering such calculations impossible. It is practicable, however, by the following rules, drawn from actual results during very many years and applied with due regard to the subjects of solar and lunar attraction with reference to this planet, to foresee the kind of weather most likely to follow the moon's change of phase:

Prognostications.

If New Moon, First Quarter, Full Moon or Last Quarter happens	In Summer.	In Winter.
Between midnight and 2 A.M.	Fair.....(1 and 2)	Frost, unless wind is S. W. (7)
" 2 " 4 "	Cold and showers ...	Snow and stormy.
" 4 " 6 "	Rain	Rain.
" 6 " 8 "	Wind and rain	Stormy.
" 8 " 10 "	Changeable.....	Cold rain if wind W., snow if E.
" 10 " 12 "	Frequent showers (3)	Cold and high wind.
" 12 " 2 P.M.	Very rainy.....(4)	Snow or rain.
" 2 " 4 "	Changeable...	Fair and mild.
" 4 " 6 "	Fair	Fair.
" 6 " 8 "	Fair if wind N. W..	Fair and frosty if wind N. or N.E.
" 8 " 10 "	Rainy if S., or S. W.	Rain or snow if S. or S. W.
" 10 " midnight	Fair	Fair and frosty.

OBSERVATIONS.—1. The nearer the moon's change, first quarter, full and last quarter to midnight, the fairer will be the weather during the next seven days.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to midday or noon the phase of the moon happens, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to summer, though they affect spring and autumn in the same ratio.

5. The moon's change, first quarter, full and last quarter happening during six of the afternoon hours, i e., from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather, but this is mostly dependent on the wind, as is noted in the table.

6. Though the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of autumn, the whole of winter and the beginning of spring, yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to these periods also.

7. To prognosticate correctly, especially in those cases where the wind is concerned, the observer should be within sight of a vane where the four cardinal points of the compass are correctly placed.

Certain phenomena in the air and peculiarities of birds have long been known to indicate a change in the weather. Many years ago the learned Dr. Jenner embodied these in verse, in reply to an invitation from a friend with whom he had planned an excursion the following day. It covers about all that is known to-day upon that branch of the subject:

"The hollow winds begin to blow,
The clouds look black, the glass is low;
The soot falls down, the spaniels sleep,
And spiders from their cobwebs peep.
Last night the sun went pale to bed.
The moon in halos hid her head;
The boding shepherd heaves a sigh,

For, see, a rainbow spans the sky;
The walls are damp, the ditches smell,
Closed is the pink-eyed pimpernel.
Hark! how the chairs and tables crack,
Old Betty's joints are on the rack;
Loud quack the ducks, the peacocks cry.
The distant hills are looking nigh.
How restless are the snorting swine,
The busy flies disturb the kine;
Low o'er the grass the swallow wings,
The cricket, too, how sharp he sings;
Puss, on the hearth, with velvet paws,
Sits, wiping o'er her whiskered jaws.
Through the clear stream the fishes rise,
And nimbly catch th' incautious flies;
The glow-worms, numerous and bright,
Illum'd the dewy dell last night;
At dusk the squalid toad was seen
Hopping and crawling o'er the green;
The whirling wind the dust obeys,
And in the rapid eddy plays;
The frog has changed his yellow vest,
And in a russet coat is dressed.
Though June, the air is cold and still;
The blackbird's mellow voice is shrill;
My dog, so alter'd is his taste,
Quits mutton bones, on grass to feast;
And see yon rooks, how odd their flight;
They imitate the gliding kite,
And seem precipitate to fall—
As if they felt the piercing ball.
'Twill surely rain, I see with sorrow;
Our jaunt must be put off to-morrow."

* Jackson called himself a South Carolinian, and his biographer, Kendall, recorded his birthplace in Lancaster County, S. C.; but Parton has published documentary evidence to show that Jackson was born in Union County, N. C., less than a quarter mile from the South Carolina line.

† The Democratic party of to-day claims lineal descent from the first Republican party, and President Jefferson as its founder.

‡ Political parties were disorganized at the time of the election of John Quincy Adams. He claimed to be a Republican, but his doctrines were decidedly Federalistic. The opposition to his Administration took the name of Democrats, and elected Jackson President.

Language of the Flowers

A CLUSTER of flowers can be made to express any sentiment if care is taken in the selection.

If a flower is offered reversed, its original signification is contradicted, and the opposite implied.

A rosebud divested of thorns, but retaining leaves, conveys the sentiment, "I fear no longer; I hope." Stripped of leaves and thorns, it signifies, "There is nothing to hope or fear."

A full-blown rose, placed over two buds, signifies "Secrecy."

"Yes" is implied by touching the flower given to the lips; "No," by pinching off a petal and casting it away.

"I am" is expressed by a laurel leaf twined around the bouquet; "I have," by an ivy leaf folded together; "I offer you," by a leaf of Virginia creeper.
